That Red Deer must have some sort of a risk this is the unanimous opinion of everyone in town and the exact same to that end seems a good idea. WEST TOO BIG TO BE PROPERLY APPRECIATED.

Hon. Edward Wood, of England, Speaks of Trip Through West-English Masses Interested in Us.

Winnipeg, Oct. 10.—Among the arrivals on the Canadian Northern from Edmonton yesterday were Hon. Edward Wood of Yorkshire, England, and M. L. Egerton, of London, England. They have been spending the last few weeks in visiting points in the west, partly on a pleasure trip, but also with eyes open for possible investments. Both of them were enthusiastic about what they had seen, and also very desirous that their privilege should be shared by more of their countrymen. While in the west they visited Portage la Prairie, Brandon, Regina, Calgary, Nelson and the cities of the west.

Too Big for Imagination.

"No one in England," said Mr. Wood "can in the least realize the size of this country. We hear of the resources and the development of Canada, but we gain really no conception of it. If only more Englishmen knew Canada, many of our problems would be solved."

Mr. Wood went on to say that the really important point about the recent trips in the west was the fact that it showed the lack of proper machinery for dealing with such questions affecting both the mother land and the colonies. What is wanted is not an English foreign policy, but an imperial foreign policy.

Masses Are Interested.

He had already noticed, when standing for parliament, and addressing workmen; that whatever shade of politics they professed, they were all interested in the colonies. This feeling should be fostered, and Canadians should be as much interested in England as they are in one of their own provinces. Make the best of sentiment which counts for a great deal—and reinforce sentiment with better facts and relations. As Mr. Chamberlain had said: "If we don't get closer we will drift further apart."

The best advertisement that Canada has," added Mr. Wood, "is the large number of contented Englishmen that find a home in the country."

Before returning to England they will visit Ottawa, and while there will be the guests of Earl Grey, the governor-general.

Collector Forged to Hand in Money.

Isidor left this city two months ago and the authorities have since been on the lookout for him.

Several young people are congratulating themselves on the fact that they are enjoying the fair on Sunday last.

Boatright, in his big Rambler motor car, was entertaining the party here all day and evening, and the Misses Sharp, who were staying, allowed the car to sweep over in a high knoll. The car turned over in the water, leaving the occupants at the bottom of the hill, without seriously injuring any, however. All were pinned down to the ground by the weight of the car, and the greatest difficulty was experienced in extricating them even with the aid of a farmer and team. The car was unharmed, and after the mishap having covered the party home, all are now recovered from the shock, and will continue at their old jobs.

Wednesday afternoon was granted as a holiday for the fair.

Mrs. E. W. W. arrived yesterday from New Zealand. Mr. and Mrs. Ruttie are now living in the home formerly occupied by H. D. Farris.

Austrian Emperor Ill.

Has Serious Attack of Bronchial Catarrh and Is Not Improving.

Vienne, Oct. 9.—Emperor Francis Joseph is still confined to his apartment at Schöenbrunn castle, suffering from an attack of bronchial catarrh, and his condition today was pronounced to be unsatisfactory. Considerable uneasiness is felt regarding his health.

In view of the advanced age of the emperor, who was born in 1830, and has been on the throne 59 years, there is considerable uneasiness. Three prominent physicians have been consulted, today and at its conclusion, guarded their expressions with reserve simply declaring that the utmost care is necessary.

Yesterday the temperature of the emperor was 101; this evening it reached 102.2.

An official bulletin tonight declares that the emperor's catarrh is becoming more serious, but that his coughing is worse. It is stated that he has not been able to receive the Austrian ministers who have just returned from Budapest after completing the negotiations with Hungary regarding the financial arrangement between the two halves of the realm, and indicates that the programme for the approaching entertainment at Vienna of the King and Queen of Spain will have to be modified.

GILLETTE'S PERFUMED LYE

Like all good articles, which are extensively advertised, Gillette's Lye is frequently and very closely imitated. In some instances these imitators have copied our directions and other printed matter word for word.

Be wise, and refuse to purchase these imitation articles, which are never satisfactory.

Insist On Getting GILLETTE'S LYE and decline to accept anything that looks to be an imitation or that is represented to be "just as good." In our experience we have never known an imitation article that has been a success or been on the market any length of time.

SHOULD SPEND IT ON EMIGRATION

British Government Agent Says Price of Battleship Should be Diverted to Better Purpose.

Windsor, Oct. 10.—G. A. Williamson, the general secretary of the Central Unemployed Body of London, England, passed through the city during the present week on his way back from Vancouver and Edmonton. Mr. Williamson has been closely identified with the emigration work of the Central Unemployed Body, which is the official organization of the British government for dealing with the unemployed classes of Great Britain. Several thousand people were sent to Canada by this body during the past two years, and many thousands will be sent during the next few years. The object of the journey of Mr. Williamson was to secure accurate information for the committee of the British government, and on his return to Great Britain he will prepare a full report of all that he has seen in the west.

Know Much, Yet Little.
When asked regarding his trip through the country, Mr. Williamson said:

"I have been associated with emigration from England for some time and consequently know a deal more of this country before I reached here than many, but from the moment the ship entered the lovely St. Lawrence down to the present time, I have been more and more impressed with how little things possible to learn of this wonderful country in a three months' tour, even with every facility provided for obtaining information as has been afforded me."

"The man who described Canada as a country of magnificent distances and illimitable possibilities, should have repeated the phrase and repeated it again and again, for the expression said accurately describes the situation. After a journey of nearly 4,000 miles from east to west, and back again, it seems incredible that there are fewer inhabitants in the whole Dominion than in the entire state of Greater London—comprising just a few square miles, with a population approaching 7,000,000 souls."

Nearing Starvation.
"Some hundreds of thousands of these are paupers, or fast approaching that stage, and many thousands more are living a hand to mouth existence while Canada is crying out from east to west for more labor at good wages."

"Great British agents about $100,000,000 a year in Poor Law relief, and almost as much more is distributed by private charity, a good deal of this being of the indiscriminate variety, which tends to encourage and to sap a man's self-reliance. Nothing is thought of spending $5,000,000 in building a battleship for the defence of the Empire. Think of what could be accomplished by expending that sum by a comprehensive scheme of emigration to this country of carefully selected persons anxious to start life afresh in a new home, with plenty of elbow room, but who have not sufficient means to do so there. They would be given land to the old land and would be attracted to the new, and all the generous resources of Canada would be put to work during the late harvest year to supplying the late harvest year with crops, such emigrants and their progeny would, moreover, be a source of strength to the Empire in times of need instead of a steadily depreciating asset if remaining in the old country."

Economic Bargain.
"It would be an economic bargain for all concerned, for the people themselves would be benefited and saved from the demoralizing effects of a long and a prolonged period of poverty and unemployment." A comparatively small sum of money would do the good of a large number of our surplus population, a large proportion of whom would, in the ordinary course of events, become a permanent annual charge on the home authorities, and so long as desiring cases of honest working men were selected, they would be a decidedly valuable acquisition to Canada.

"This brings me to a much discussed point in England, i.e., that the Englishman is disliked over here, and that an emigrant of any nation under the sun is preferred to the man from England. Till I emigrated into the facts on this side, I wondered why it should be so. I know now and I am not surprised. I have spoken to many emigrants themselves as to their opinion of this country, and in nearly every instance I find it is the person who grumbles, but immediately that same man gets into the skin of the Canadian spirit he is a Canadian to the backbone. It takes but a few minutes and one winter as a rule, and he is a different man. Canadians should remember that it is an Englishman's privilege to grumble. His arrogance and discontent at his new surroundings has largely contributed to the making of the huge empire on which the sun never sets, and his assistance has caused his tongue to be the language not only of this huge North American continent, but one that is used in any part of the world."

When He's Bad He's Horrid.
"A prominent Canadian said a few days ago: 'When an Englishman is good he is very, very good, but when he is bad he's a terror.' This is pretty generally conceded I believe in Canada, so it behooves Canadians to see that they get only good samples, but don't let any Englishman with the same brim. You'll put up the back of the good ones and you'll see only those from whom you have suffered so much in the past—the remittance men, the bar-de-wells, and those home fathers who would be failures anywhere. This class of emigrant is rapidly dying out, and is being superseded by an increasing flow of a better class—real workers. Don't say that flow by saying 'an Englishman is no good.' Give him a chance. He will help to make a fine host foundation to the wonderful nation that is in the making here at the present day."

British Capital.
"But what I should like to see in addition to British emigrants pouring into Canada is a large amount of capital invested at home at 4 to 5 per cent, and there is plenty of room for it. For instance, an amount here if judiciously invested, would be as good as insurance, and as the state of affairs in England is a nation in a hurry, in a hurry to get rich, in ten months of a hurry according to one standpoint. There is a true saying that the length of duration is controlled by the length of retention, and there is suspicion that things are really here and hoarded and not actually founded, but for all that there is a fast growing knowledge of the exact state of affairs, and it is safe to predict that the results of the recent Canadian tour of Mr. Williamson and others to this country will be extremely beneficial to Canada in every respect."

CALGARY MILLER KILLED.

Was Electrocuted in Portland Cement Works—Another Man Injured.

Calgary, Oct. 10.—This afternoon there was a fatal accident at the Alberta Portland Cement Works, where one man was killed and another rendered unconscious and several burned by a terrible shock of electricity. Walter Rodgers is a dead man and J. Hutchinson is injured. Rodgers and Hutchinson are millers and work in a separate part of the building. In some inexplicable manner a power of 10,000 volts was communicated to the lead and Rodgers received the full power by coming in contact with the lead. Hutchinson, regardless of personal danger rushed to his assistance and attempted to save him, but couldn't, himself suffering severe burns and being rendered unconscious by the flood. Hutchinson was removed at once to the hospital. He is a young man who has been in the cement company some time. There is little doubt that he will recover. Walter Rodgers, the dead man, was of middle age, married and has a family.

Hungary Strife Rises.
Buda Pest, Oct. 10.—With business as a standard, all shops closed and only a million workers engaged in demonstrations in more than a hundred and fifty cities. The Hungarian parliament today, on the opening day of the session, had the significance of a general demand for universal suffrage illustrated in a manner it will hardly dare to ignore, so completely is the "passive treatment." On account of the strike it was necessary to suspend the session. The strike and waterworks. All the trains and passenger suspend today. The demonstration probably will amount to a peaceful revolution which will not cause Hungary, and destroy the power of the nobles. The passage of the universal suffrage bill will be a great victory for the Emperor Francis Joseph.

Good Work of Zola's Widow.
Paris, Oct. 10.—The annual literary pilgrimage to Emile Zola's house at Medan, where he wrote most of his novels, coincided this year with the inauguration of the little children's sanatorium into which Zola's widow generally transformed the building. Fifteen cots had been placed on the first ground floor room which formerly was the library. Zola's study upstairs will be their playground when the weather does not allow them recreation in the park.
